Thirty-two of the 35 were arrested at Dornay's residence. 31 were charged with disorderly conduct.

NEAR CLOSE OF PLEDGE DRIVE

Workers To Visit Homes Missed in Last Week's Canvass.

Marion county's war bond pledge campaign work is between 85 and 90 per cent completed, leaders estimated this morning.

Canvassers, with but few exceptions, had many repeat calls to make at Marion homes to finish their work, reporting that they had contacted some houses three or four times but were unable to find anyone at home.

Divide leaders said they have instructed the workers to take another day or two if necessary to make the campaign a 100 per cent one.

They estimated some workers would not finish their canvass until Tuesday, but urged all of them to turn in their books just as soon as their homes have been contacted.

The books will be turned over to the county War Savings Staff for summarizing.

In Rural Areas The situation today was virtually the same in the rural part of the county as in the city, drive leaders said.

In both areas the workers still have more calls to make. However, 75 per cent of the rural workers have turned in their report books. Those in the city are expected to be turned in today and tomorrow.

All of the drive leaders today spoke words of praise for both the canvassers and residents of the city and county in general for their spirit of cooperation in the drive.

They said they had received no reports of hostile treatment of canvassers, and that people generally seemed anxious to sign pledges. Many families that have not yet been contacted have called drive leaders, anxious to make a pledge.

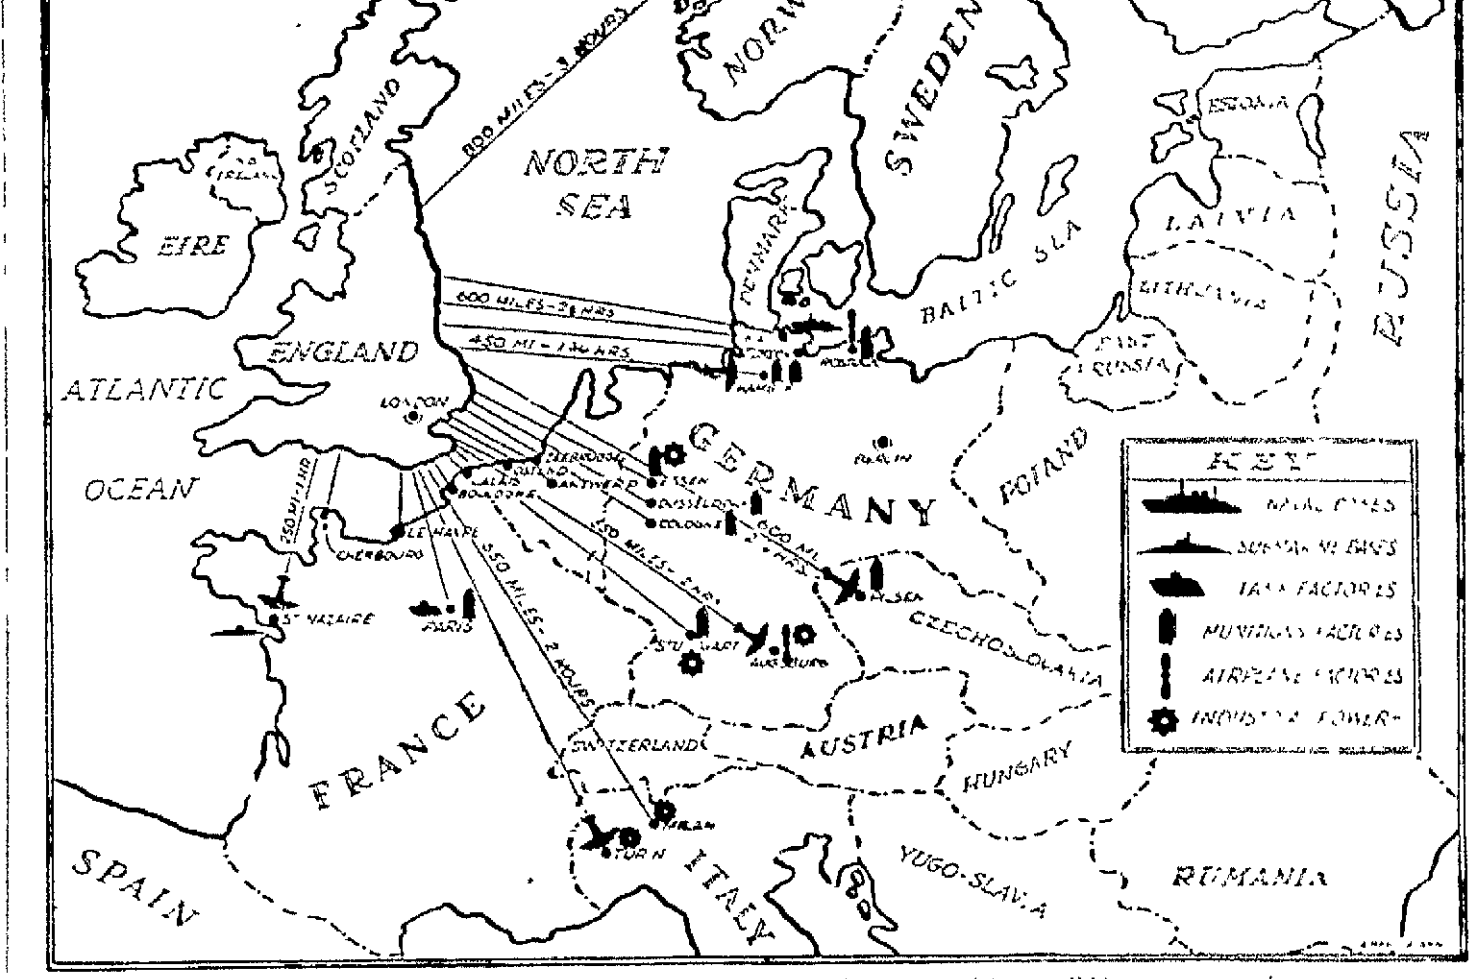

Even after the workers turn in their reports, some provision will be made for persons that have been missed to sign pledges, Harold J. Grigsby, Kiwanis club president, said this morning.

He said the club's citizenship chairman who is directing the city's part of the campaign, under the club's sponsorship, were to confer this morning on plans to sign up families that are missed in the general canvass.

Seek Pledges From All Drive leaders this morning again emphasized that persons who are buying bonds on the payroll deduction plan should sign a pledge, along with every one else.

HOW RAF POUNDS AT SECOND FRONT

Here's a concise map of the second front created by the RAF. It lists the key Nazi centers attacked, approximate flying time and mileage from secret British air bases. The actual time and mile age involved in the numerous and almost continuous raids varies due to the weight of the loads carried by the big planes (flying conditions), and the bombing strategy employed (International News Map).

GAS WARFARE THREAT SEEN

Churchill Promises Quick Retaliation if Nazis Use Weapon Against Russians.

LONDON, May 11.—Prime Minister Churchill's brightest war report so far was overshadowed today by the terrible prospect of gas warfare which he promised to Germany if the Nazis dared to start it.

The British attitude was one of abhorrence for the use of gas. But the island was confident that Germany would not start a gas war for her cities and people by starting it—and had better think twice if, as the Russians already have reported, she is testing it on the Crimean front.

British newspapers, recalling that Churchill accurately had foreseen "events at hand" in the past, took for granted that he spoke of an imminent possibility. They renewed warnings to civilians to carry gas masks and then military writers dwelt on Britain's capacity to wage such warfare.

The Daily Mail's war correspondent said "no power" was better equipped than Britain for gas warfare and that the Nazis' knowledge of that "so far has dissuaded Germany from courting even more disastrous reprisal than that which has answered her introduction of bombing towns and merchant ships."

2 Years After Dunkerque Speaking two years after the Germans had stormed across France to Dunkerque, 20 miles from England's shore, Churchill yesterday gave Britain and her allies what he called a well-earned "message of good cheer."

It was his second anniversary as prime minister. He declared the "awful balance" finally had turned and now "we have only to endure and persevere to conquer."

Contrasted even with his last message, when he informed the British people that the tide had turned, when he informed the British people that the tide had turned.

Blind Marionite's Music on Program "Mother o' Mine," Kipling's poem set to music composed by Arthur Kelllogg, Marion's blind pianist and composer, was sung publicly for the first time yesterday morning in First Presbyterian church.

Mr. Kelllogg was in the congregation. The song, published recently by a Philadelphia publishing house, was sung by Miss Dorothy Stephenson, soprano, with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Harry T. Williams.

CHINESE ALSO STRIKE BLOW AT INVADERS

Heavy Damage Inflicted on Column Driving North from Burma.

By The Associated Press The actual sequel to the battle of the Coral sea talked to 21 the count of Japanese ships destroyed or damaged in a week off Australia. The Japanese on the Hunan-China front were attempting to wipe out a disaster reverse.

United nations bombardments ranging the Coral sea Saturday and Sunday scored high hits on a seaplane tender, a tanker and two submarines. It is possible that the submarines now lie on the bottom.

Chungking reported that the Japanese invading China from Burma had received reinforcement to replace two columns wiped out late last week.

General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander of British imperial forces in India, poised three reorganized armies to attack at the enemy pushing northward.

Wavell announced that the three army commands in India had been changed from static administrative bases to fighting headquarters ready to move wherever the enemy strikes.

The British, with whose Prime Minister Churchill the threat of retaliation, and sole gas warfare in Europe originated, yesterday to that weapon against the Germans, believed they could overmatch the Nazis in the new technique of spraying clouds of lethal mid-air industrial and military centers from bombing planes.

The Germans exhibited wariness in their response to the gas threat. If Churchill deems it necessary to make use of certain armaments, the Berlin radio quoted Wilhelm Keitel, supreme commander of the German armed forces, as saying that Britain is about to commit another crime.

The broadcast did not use the words "poison gas." Evidently the German people were cut off from the full context of Churchill's statement.

Only two days ago the official Russian news agency, Tass, relayed a report that the Germans were trying to dig out gas mines on the extreme southern, or Crimean front.

The latest dispatches on actual warfare on that front underline the position of besieged Leningrad. Increased activity in the German air lines indicated that the Germans might be preparing a new attempt to take that big industrial port.

The Moscow radio said that rooftop spotlights could see Nazi troops working in waist-deep water, apparently preparing "assault trenches."

Continuing victory over Japanese seaplanes on the northeastern plink of Australia and the supply line to that continent-based of the United Nations strengthened the belief that it could be held as a concentration point for the eventual counter-offensive against Japan although the danger had not yet passed.

Competent observers at allied headquarters in Australia, stressing the conservation of the total claims against the Japanese, expressed belief that the Washington summary of the sea battle, when it is issued, might indicate that the tide had turned.

A Wall Between Them Jealousy was a wall between pretty stage-struck Kathleen Vaughan and newspaperman Joe Neely. But Joe did something about it. He promptly interested a glamorous summer stock leading lady in one of his own plays and Kathleen thought he was succeeding too well. # "Grodowski is my name"

I AM AN AMERICAN, 39 years old.

My parents were born on the other side where life was hard and people were pushed around, even before Hitler. And we knew fear and hunger.

But even way out there we knew there was an America. And my parents talked about it in the fields. And dreamed of it. And scrimped for it.

So they came over here—strangers in a strange land. And were welcomed. Not as foreigners. But as Americans.

And they settled where they pleased.

And they worshipped Whom they pleased.

And they cried the first time they voted.

They sent me to a free public school. They trained me. They made me a free man.

And we lived in peace. And we lifted up our heads. And the freedom was so real you could almost touch it as you walked.

Today there are people who want to take that freedom away from us. Today there is danger in the air.

An evil man, named Hitler, and his little yellow stooges, have sworn that we must kneel along with all other nations. That we shall know the cruelty and hate and fear brought to so many other people in so many other lands.

Certainly, we in America, should not be so easy to fool—especially when we've seen the way the others have been taken in.

We must make every sacrifice to keep the freedom we found here—keep it for ourselves and our children.

Some of us whose fathers in the old country saw what dictators can do, and who can qualify, are "joining up". Some of us are in Defense jobs. All of us can chip in—by helping to buy the guns and tanks and ships and planes Uncle Sam needs to win this war.

We should put every cent we can scrape up into Defense Bonds and Defense Stamps and more Bonds and more Stamps. We have a chance to buy a share in America! I'm doing that, believe me!

Think of it . . . me, son of Europe, a partner in America!

Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps give all of us a way to help in winning this war for America—an American way to find the billions needed for national defense.

The United States is today, as it has always been, the best investment in the world. This is an opportunity for each citizen to buy a share in America.

HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Questions and Answers about Bonds and Stamps

Q. How much do Defense Bonds cost?

A. $18.75, $37.50, $75 and up. (In 10 years, you get $25, $50, or $100.)

Q. Do I have to pay at least $18.75 all at once?

A. No. You can get Defense Stamps for as little as 10 cents. When you get $18.75 worth, you change it for a Bond. There are also Stamps for 25 cents, 50 cents, $1. and $5. You get attractive albums to stick them in.

Q. Can I get my money back if I need it?

A. Yes. After 60 days, your Government will buy your Bond or part of it back.

Q. If I lose my Bond, or it's burned up, am I out of luck?

A. No. A duplicate will be issued on proof of loss.

Q. Can my youngster buy Bonds and Stamps?

A. Certainly. Thousands of youngsters are buying them today.

Q. How will my money help the country?

A. It will actually buy defense implements. And the more money raised the less each implement will cost—the lower prices will be.

Q. Where can I buy Defense Bonds and Stamps?

A. You can buy Bonds at your post office or bank. You can buy Stamps everywhere.

News Behind the News

War Financing Program Represents
About Two-Thirds of National Wealth.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Mr. Roosevelt has been getting ready to ask congress for a new war financing program. It is estimated that the program will bring the total war financing to about $100,000,000,000.

It is six times as much as there was in the United States last year in all the banks, treasury, or postoffice. It is estimated that the program will bring the total war financing to about $100,000,000,000.

It is five times as much as the federal debt accumulated through the entire history of the country, even after it was doubled during the New Deal era before Dec. 7. It is the greatest expenditure ever conceived in the mind of man.

Spending Rate

You may not be interested in figures, but you will be interested in them, because you have never seen anything like them before. At the moment we are spending at a rate of $40,000,000,000 a year. This is nearly as much as Britain and Germany together are spending.

Germany's outlay is hard to calculate, because it is involved in fictitious mark values and low value-in-kind costs. Disregarding these incalculable factors, Mr. Roosevelt's economists figure the Nazis are spending $25,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000.

Britain is spending only half as much as we are today. Their war production is running not more than $20,000,000,000.

The German production, however, is coming out in ready-to-shoot form, whereas a very small percentage of our expenditures represents this finished fighting form of equipment so far.

A relatively large amount of our iron and steel is going into the building of factories or ships to carry equipment to faraway fronts, whereas the Nazi factories have long been finished and they do not need ships to get their stuff to the front. Also Hitler has built up large inventories of war material and has an edge in that respect for the moment.

Spending Plans

There need be no doubts about Mr. Roosevelt's ability to spend the colossal amount he plans. The sum was reached on a basis of ability.

So far we have actually spent only one-sixth of it, around $30,000,000,000. The total for this year will be about $50,000,000,000 or 25 per cent of it. Next year will come the peak when we will put out $75,000,000,000, and by that time the money will represent a much greater percentage of ready-to-shoot goods.

British Pollies

An American, back from London, is telling the strange tale that the British public would vote for socialism today if presented with the choice between that and its capitalist democracy.

He may be exaggerating, but what he says is at least partly certified by recent news accounts from London concerning the popularity of the Cripps kind of socialist politician.

How anyone could fight for democracy and embrace the opposite while doing so is a question that remains to be answered. The only answer the American had is that the average citizen of Britain has respect for Russia's war effort, and Red toughness, solely because of what the Russians have been able to do in the Nazi military machine.

The British people might as well have respect for vast Russian distances, because it was these that had as much to do with the Nazi setback as the political form of arbitrary socialism practiced by the Stalin regime—in fact, more.

What solidified Russia was not the form of government, Stalin had never been able to get unity that way in peace, as is proved by the small number of party members among the total population. Russia was patriotically unified only by the treacherous Nazi attack.

But people jump to quick and foolish conclusions in the excitement of war, especially people who have gained so few victories as the British. What they need apparently is a little fighting, and less politics at home, a few successes on the field of battle to dispel their black political dreaming.

When these come along, as they surely must, Britain's popular discontent, manifesting itself now in such a peculiar way, will evaporate.

Kansas Trains Farm Army

Town Boys, Women and Girls To Help Harvest Crops

By ROGER KIRKWOOD
Wide World Writer

TOPEKA, Kas., May 11.—In this breadbasket state where another bumper wheat harvest looms, town boys and even women and girls are learning how to run tractors and other field machinery in meeting the challenge of a critical farm labor shortage.

Thousands have been recruited to replace men called to the colors or to industrial production lines—in a statewide rally.

High school boys are spending extra hours after regular classes and on Saturdays studying fundamentals of farm machinery. Agricultural instructors are conducting demonstrations in the field. A large number already have been tentatively placed and will get their first experience at farm chores when schools are dismissed for the summer.

To some communities of the nation's largest wheat state women and girls are joining enthusiastically in courses offered by farm implement companies. Women have volunteered to help with the milking, feed livestock or go into the fields and ride tractors and cultivators.

The federal and state agricultural departments reported in April that Kansas farm labor supply was only 37 per cent of normal. The scarcity is prevalent throughout the entire middle western farm belt despite the offer of highest wages since 1930.

Ready To Serve

"Kansas won't stand by and allow wheat to go unharvested for lack of hands," predicted J. C. (Alf) Mobley, veteran secretary of the state agriculture board.

"When the showdown comes, rural communities will furnish in emergency worker supply. Merchants will lock their shops, the town banker, minister and teacher—folks who know what the wheat harvest means—will go into the fields."

Highway department trucks, county cars and school buses may be commandeered for transporting groups from town duties into the fields in necessary.

Gay Payne Ratner rounded the rail for attack on the acute shortage when he summoned agricultural leaders to outline a survey of possible sources of emergency farm manpower.

High school and college youths and town men willing to put some time in on the harvest appeared the best bet.

2,500 Enrolled Now

Lester Pollock, state vocational agriculture supervisor, estimated 2,500 city boys already had enrolled in special farm classes in addition to more than 6,000 farm youths specializing in vocational agriculture.

School shops have been given over to the salvaging and repair of farm machinery. Farmers are being taught to be their own repairmen. Since professional mechanics have gone off to war plants.

The U. S. employment service started early surveys of farm labor needs and organized local committees to assist in locating workers. WPA construction projects have suspended in critical areas to release men.

The farm security administration is urging 2,500 borrowers, occupied only part time on their own farms, to hire out for the remainder of their time.

Different communities have their own methods of solving the shortage problem. At Goldwater, in Comanche county, a farm implement firm is giving a free course of instruction in tractor operation for women and girls.

At Wichita, where rural youths have flocked for employment in airplane factories, men teachers of the public schools are organizing to spend part of their summer vacations helping with the wheat harvest.

Newby Winfield, with an outstanding school vocational department, is opening well-equipped shops day and night to farmers who want assistance in implement repair.

Neighbors are banding together in many places to help one another with the heavier jobs, like the old threshing crews which have been outmoded generally in Kansas by the combine.

Farm women are holding meetings to learn of more ways they can help relieve the worker scarcity, but farmers insist there is a limit to what the womenfolk can do.

"They don't have much truck with the suggestion from Washington that city women and college co-eds be trained to do the outside chores," said Harold Lewis, farm placement director for the employment service.

But Lewis voiced the opinion Kansas would rally and save the crops come harvest time.

By 10 p. m. the Big Dipper may be seen high above the North Star while the "W"-shaped constellation of Cassiopeia appears low on the northern horizon. For observers who live in the southern states, Cassiopeia is lost to view below the northern horizon. The constellation of Leo, the Lion, appears to the west of the meridian and many of the summer star groups are rising by 10 o'clock.

A new feature, "This Week in the Sky," begins today in this page. Telling the ever-changing story of our celestial neighbors, it will follow the habits of the moon, the planets, the meteor showers—the minor events that are taking place, and can be seen, in the great space beyond. Watch for "This Week in the Sky" every Monday in this page.

Southwest Pacific Weather

By National Geographic Society.

JAPANESE forces carried on the battle of Burma in the terrific heat of the pre-monsoon period because it was necessary to get before military operations were slowed down by the violent bursting of the southwest monsoon. Sweeping across thousands of miles of water on its moisture-laden journey, the monsoon spills its cargo of water not only over Burma, but also over the greater part of India's parched and water-hungry lands. If it follows its usual schedule, it will begin as early as mid-May in lower Burma and will strike India early in June, reaching its peak in July and August, and slowly retreating until October.

The blistering months of March, April, and May in Burma and India are the preparation days for the coming monsoon. Temperatures on the northern plains often reach 120 degrees and the humidity sometimes falls as low as 1 per cent. The sun shines pale and yellow in a cloudless, dust-filled sky. The heated rush of the northern plains of India becomes an atmospheric whirlpool sucking and drawing the winds from the cooler seas toward the hot, thirsty land.

The primary cause of the monsoon—which is better developed over the Arabian sea and the Bay of Bengal than anywhere else in the world—is the difference in temperature and pressure of the air over land and sea. As the temperature rises over the land in the northern hemisphere, the air pressure there falls, since warm air is relatively light. As the temperature falls over the ocean area in the southern hemisphere, the pressure rises.

THE super-heated, low-pressure plains of upper India begin "inhaling" the winds from the surrounding waters, and the suction toward the land is so strong at the height of the monsoon, that it pulls the southeast trade wind across the equator where it swells into the surge of the southwesterly rain-filled winds rushing toward India. Once in India, the monsoon sweeps up the mountain slopes spilling its moisture lavishly on the windward

The word monsoon comes from the Arabic "mausim" meaning "season" and was given to the seasonal wind which blew from one direction for six months of the year then reversed and blew from the opposite direction. The comparatively dry northeast monsoon sweeps over India during the cooler months of the year beginning shortly after the moisture-laden southwest monsoon has quieted down.

Civil War Raiders

Besides the Famous Col. Morgan
Turner Ashby and Gen. Morgan
Mastered Hit-and-Run Tactics.

By DAMON RUNYON

COL. MOSSY never used more than 50 men and sometimes as few as 20 in style of fighting at which he was a master. The Civil war and which has been introduced in this war by the British with their commandos.

It was because of the small detachments, the great Confederate "Partisan Ranger" appeared and disappeared with startling suddenness, on his forays, disbanding his men with capture threatened and letting them fairly melt into the landscape one by one.

The only difference between Mosby's technique and that of the Commandos is that the latter have airplanes to carry them on their daring expeditions. Mosby's men were all horsemen of amazing endurance. The Union soldiers called the "regulars" of the Louisiana Cavalry's command sometimes committed to not counteracted by the rules of warfare, then the Confederates made similar charges against some of the Union troops, too.

Elusive as Mosby and his men were, the real will of the wisp of the Confederate irregulars was Turner Ashby, a handsome man who always rode a white horse that could jump ditches and fences like a steeplechaser and came to be regarded by the Union soldiers as a wholly mythical figure. They would not believe that such a man existed because he struck in many different places in so short a period of time that the northerners decided the exploits must be the work of several different bands of troops.

ASHBY got a commission at the outbreak of the war as captain of a band of Rangers, but was rapidly promoted. He was a brigadier general when he was killed at Harrisburg, leading his men in a cavalry engagement during Stonewall Jackson's Valley campaign. He was crying: "Charge men! For God's sake, charge!"

Ashby and his men moved like the wind. He would smash a wagon train in one stroke, daybreak and belt a Union camp 30 miles away at nightfall. He was once captured by the Union Michigan cavalry but escaped by wheeling his horse suddenly and jumping it over a high fence. John Hunt Morgan, who was also a general of the Confederate army when he was killed near Greenville, Tenn., in 1864, was a Partisan Ranger leader whose methods were different from those of Mosby. His command was always on a permanent basis and eventually developed beyond mere Raiders into trained cavalry.

He was born in Alabama but was raised in Lexington, Ky., where stands an equestrian statue to his memory. He was a veteran of the Mexican war and at the outbreak of the Civil war was one of the first to raise a company of horsemen and offer his services to the Confederacy. He picked his men for horseman's skill and daring.

MORGAN's command would ride until the mounts became exhausted, then would move the saddles and bridles and keep a watchful eye on the picked-up fresh steeds at a side farm. They generally pitched into the Union camps at night and by dawn were gone on their way back to their own lines laden with booty and prisoners.

One of Morgan's greatest exploits was a raid in force into Indiana and Ohio, which brought terrific reprisals in the north. He struck terror to the middle west and wrought considerable damage but the pursuing Union cavalry finally caught up with him at Portersburg, near Buffington Island, after he had galloped through the outskirts of Cincinnati. He lost 600 men in battle and as many more surrendered.

Morgan himself gave up to Gen. Sherman a few days later near New Lisbon, O. He was imprisoned in the penitentiary at Columbus and escaped a few months later, rejoining the Confederate army. He was shot to death in a garden in Greenville, Tenn., while making a dash through a cordon of Union soldiers, apparently having been betrayed to the federalists.

Summer School Work

(Second of two articles.)

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Although each city or county school board will have to solve its own problem in meeting the all-out wartime summer school program recommended by the U. S. Office of Education, it's a safe bet that never before will the nation's schools have been such a center of community war activity during vacation as this year.

Even those communities where the school system are on a dead center financially or otherwise Federal aid for a summer program of wartime education, the schools can, according to U. S. Education Commissioner John W. Starnes, make a wartime contribution, do more than that in an extra-curricular way.

In other words, no school should be closed this summer unless some much better method of house is available to the neighborhood.

The schools, says the commission, should offer their plants and personnel to the war effort in four ways:

- (1) Information offices for the OGD, Selective Service, commodity rationing (the rationing program is an example of how important the schools can be along this line), and other government agencies having to do with the war and defense.
- (2) The salvage and conservation program.
- (3) The sale of war savings stamps and bonds.
- (4) Nursery schools, kindergartens and playgrounds for the children of mothers in war industry.
- (5) Entertainment of service men and war workers.
- (6) Housing of service men, industrial and agricultural workers.
- (7) Red Cross, OGD and other war centers.
- (8) Recreation and health training headquarters.
- (9) Transportation by school buses of war workers where regulations permit.
- (10) Victory garden organizations.
- (11) Canning and preserving in school kitchens.
- (12) War information and recreational reading in school libraries.
- (13) Vocational guidance for young persons seeking war industry jobs or training that will lead to such jobs.
- (14) Organization and rehearsal of talent for entertaining service men, war workers and the general public.
- (15) Promotion of medical examination and health corrective programs for boys and girls of high school age.
- (16) Planning conversion of schools in war areas into first aid and hospital centers.

That's a whole lot of programs, but it's worth giving thought to. Every so many square block there is a school—or in rural areas, every many miles. Those schools are public buildings and as such can now become the center of every community war effort.

That's what the Office of Education wants. Commission is out to make them. The commission will take an exceptional financial burden as an excuse—but nothing else.

Don't Be Discouraged

IF THE naval battle of the Coral Sea leaves you uncertain, don't be discouraged.

The battle is being compared to the battle of Jutland, greatest naval episode of the first World war. There was no way of telling how the battle of Jutland turned out until Germany lost the war. Then it was concluded that Germany must have lost the battle of Jutland, though there still was room for argument.

What happened at Jutland may prove helpful in speculating on what may happen as one result of the engagement in the Coral sea. Of the combatants, Germany was the weaker in potential and actual capacity for replacing naval losses. Therefore, even though the German fleet's losses were smaller than those of the British fleet, the losses to the German fleet were relatively more serious.

Some aspects of Japanese economy have been underestimated, but there can be no doubt that its ability to replace naval losses is relatively less than that of the United States. Thus, a Pearl Harbor probably would lose the war for Japan, while for the United States it merely added a tremendous complication. When it happened, this country was preparing a larger supplemental battle fleet than the entire Japanese fleet in being.

Long ago, when the war was new, experts sagely pronounced that it was going to be fought and decided principally on the high seas. That theory has been lost in the shuffle of momentous events—the air war over Europe, the land action in Russia, the valiant defense in the Philippines. But the news from the Far East, whether good or bad, is a pressing reminder that the outcome of the war in that quarter at least is going to turn heavily on what happens to Japanese naval power. The instant it ceases to have the advantage of the margin of power it gained by the blow at Pearl Harbor following withdrawal of part of the United States fleet into the Atlantic, the ultimate outcome of the war will have been determined.

What Does the Treasury Mean?

SOME day when the treasury can spare the time, an assistant secretary to an assistant secretary should whip up a definition of middle class taxpayer. The way things are now, it's extremely confusing.

According to apparent treasury policy, the middle class taxpayer is the one who has all the money. When taxes go up, the bulk of the increase is supposed to come from the middle class taxpayer.

He is also the taxpayer who must be relieved of surplus buying power in order to avert inflation. It is assumed that the wealthy taxpayer already has been relieved and the poor taxpayer has nothing to be relieved of. But the middle class taxpayer—ah, kindly hand Secretary of the Treasury the ax.

Furthermore, it is the middle class taxpayer who always gets represented in 10 or more digits. He is the baby who shells out the billions. The taxpayers just below him may be more numerous, but even when Mr. Morgenthau is doodling with taxation possibilities they never account for more than a theoretical million or two here and there. The taxpayers just above, on the other hand, are all cream while they last, but they are the vanishing Americans.

Frankly, the middle class taxpayer don't get it. Their name is legion. They are clerks and mechanics and artisans and small tradesmen. They are everybody in the United States who makes a practice of thinking of society as being divided into two parts—the rich and the middle class, to which he, himself, belongs. This makes the proletarian agitators furious, but it's the way things are. Except for the peddlers and Reds and a sprinkling of dyspeptics, Americans are all middle class—and they are all taxpayers.

Furthermore, when Mr. Morgenthau tells some committee or other what they can afford to pay they are sorely puzzled. They don't recognize themselves. Specifically, they don't like that excess buying power he keeps talking about, so he must be talking about somebody else—somebody who is making a fine thing out of the war. That's why it would be handy if the treasury department would arrange to be more specific when it tells how many billions can be lifted from the laden pockets of the middle class. Where is it? What is it?

FORCED WAR AID PROPOSED

Ways To Compel Weekly Investment in War Effort Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 11—Plans to compel every American wage earner to invest a part of his weekly pay check in the war effort were put forth in both branches of Congress today.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee advocated a withholding tax of from 5 to 10 percent on all wages, salaries and dividends, while Rep. Gore (D-Tenn.) came forth with a bill to deduct a percentage of every wage beginning with 4 percent in the $26-$300 bracket, and rising upward.

The Gore bill, which provides that the money deducted be used to purchase war bonds, in the plan would set up the following scale in the lower brackets:

Weekly Wage	Single	Married
$20 to $30	4%	None
$30 to $40	$1.50 plus 7% of amount over $30	7%
$40 to $50	$2.50 plus 8% of amount over $40	$1.50 plus 8% of amount over $40
$50 to $60	$3.50 plus 9% of amount over $50	$2.50 plus 9% of amount over $50
$60 to $70	$4.50 plus 10% of amount over $60	$3.50 plus 10% of amount over $60

In the higher brackets, annual income would be limited to $2,000, after payment of taxes, with the remainder going into the purchase of bonds. That was the limit favored by President Roosevelt in his recent state-of-the-union speech.

Senator George's 5-to-10 percent withholding tax plan was offered as an alternative of the treasury's proposal to obtain $1,100,000,000 in new revenue by lowering income tax exemptions. Assuming that the treasury plan would place a "terrible burden" on the low income groups, George predicted that Congress would favor to turn instead to some new form of taxation such as a withholding or sales levy. Of the two, he said he preferred a withholding tax.

In a surprise move last week, the treasury proposed to the house ways and means committee that exemptions for single persons be lowered from $750 to $500 and for married persons from $1,500 to $1,200. The $300 credit for each dependent would be reduced to $200.

George said that a 5 percent withholding tax, collected at the source, would produce about $2,300,000,000. As he explained it, the tax would be deducted by employers and forwarded to the government, the same as the social security tax is now taken out of pay checks.

British empire that Singapore had fallen, Churchill yesterday gave it a warning, saying that if the Japanese did not stop their offensive against Germany, the United States would be forced to take action.

Churchill's Speech Most Cheerful of Any Statement Yet

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World Staff Analyst

British Premier Churchill's broadcast last night strikes me as containing more really sunlit optimism—a message of good cheer—as he called it—than any of his previous pronouncements, which have borne heavily on the subject of sweat blood and tears.

Into his summary of the military position the prime minister really injected a note of triumphant certainty that the allies are marching to victory. Because Mr. Churchill is conservative, studious in avoiding exaggeration it is good to hear him declare that "we are moving through many reverses and defeats to complete and final victory."

But Churchill's talk wasn't all pleasant. He injected a horror into it by announcing that the Germans believe "the Germans in the desperation of their assault may make use of poison gas against the armies and people of Russia."

With that the premier grimly warned Hitler that if the latter resorts to such measures, the British will use their "great and growing air superiority in the largest possible scale far and wide against military objectives in Germany."

Churchill said the British are resolved not to use "this odious weapon" unless it is first employed by the Germans.

"Knowing our Hun, however," he added, "we have not neglected to make preparations on a formidable scale."

The hall in the battle of the Coral sea easily may be merely a breathing spell after the first phase of a great engagement which will continue to swell until it has much to do with determining the control of the southwest Pacific.

It will be a battle of attrition, a battle of nerves, a battle of will. It is probable that the Japanese fleet will come to the aid of the Japanese army, and the Japanese army will come to the aid of the Japanese fleet.

Many of his passages ring with a warning and determination, touching on events still to come and on accomplishments already on the credit side of the Allies ledger.

USE RULE OF REASON PRICE URGES RADIO

Censorship Chief Outlines War Report Policy.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, May 11—Byron Price, director of the office of censorship, urged today that radio follow the "rule of reason" in its use of voluntarily keeping information from the enemy while continuing to give the public "comprehensive news about the war."

In an address prepared for the annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, Price put the final responsibility upon station operators not only for the proper broadcasting of news dispatches, but also for the activities of commentators and news analysts. He warned against "speculation and prediction which makes itself the vehicle for smugging of dangerous information."

It is not too much to say, he continued, "that the success or failure of voluntary cooperation in broadcasting will depend upon the degree of control which patriotic broadcasters exercise over the operation of their stations."

Of deepest concern, he said, is the error which results from "thoughtlessness or carelessness," rather than from faulty judgment.

"To those who are trying to keep information from the enemy, the magnitude of radio as a facility of communication is appalling," said the censorship chief.

He stated the problem "On the one hand there are agencies of the government which because of the particular responsibilities assigned to them, are naturally skeptical of news dispatches. On the other hand are the press, the radio, and the public anxious for a maximum of news."

"Each of these groups is eager to help the other, in fact the controlling and enlightening element is that no one worthy of the name of American, be he broadcaster, reporter, news officer, book writer, or plain citizen, wants to endanger a single life by disclosing something which should be kept secret."

Then he asserted "You can only resolve such situations by the rule of reason. No one thinking of either side can feel only to ridiculous results and national harm."

Compulsory Savings And Wage Freezing Forecast
WASHINGTON, May 11—Members of the house ways and means committee said today that Price Administrator Leon Henderson had told them compulsory savings of some kind and possibly a general freezing of wages might be necessary to combat inflation.

Jap Claims Fantastic
Japan's claims against the United Nations forces, mostly United States ships, already have been officially discounted as "fantastic."

The surface ship phase of the air-sea encounter was broken off last Friday, with the remnants of the Japanese force in flight, but the actual counter-blows continued. On Saturday a Japanese seaplane tender and a tanker were bombed and on Sunday two submarines were sunk or damaged—all off northeastern Australia.

In addition to the two submarines, enemy seaplanes in the southwest tip of New Guinea were bombed, results undetermined. Five seaplanes, however, were known to have been destroyed or damaged in connection with Saturday's tanker-tender attacks and two fighters were destroyed by interceptors at Port Moresby, allied base in New Guinea.

The war department in Washington finally issued an account of that April 18 assault on Japan but left unanswered the big question bothering the Japanese—where the raiders were based.

Those that assailed Tokyo apparently rode a radio broadcast beam to their objective at the very time that an announcer in the capital was telling of Japan's freedom of fear that she could be bombed.

PACIFIC
clude additional Japanese transport losses.

The sinking of two transports or supply ships and damaging of two have been noted in a communiqué from Australia.

In line with what is tant in interpreting the loss of the Coral sea, Sir Keith Murdoch of the Melbourne Herald, one of Australia's most eminent public figures, said that "the engagement was with a comparatively light Japanese naval force, not against the main Japanese fleet."

What must be realized, he added, "is that a large Japanese expedition is beginning."

On the Burma-Ceylon front, the other major theater of war in the Pacific, before arrival of Japanese reinforcements the Chinese appeared to have turned the tables on the enemy, with the Japanese in flight back through the hills of Yunnan province toward the Burma border, 4,500 dead marking the sectors of their disaster.

Tokyo, citing on Chungking's specific victory claims, nevertheless declared that British-imperial and Chinese resistance in Burma was tottering and that on Burma's Indian frontier the lives of allied retreat into the Indian province of Ceylon had been cut off by Japanese seizure of all strategic points.

The Russian front still was quiescent as compared to the fury which prevailed in the German offensive last summer and the Russian counter-offensive of the winter months. Winter was having its final fling on the northern and central sectors while the world waited for the fuy to break anew, either there or in some other potential battle zone of Europe.

AIRMAN PHOTOGRAPH CORAL SEA BATTLE

U. S. Planes Get Graphic Pictures of Conflict.

By The Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO, May 11—American bombers returning to their Australian base from an independent mission watched the gigantic battle of the Coral sea from grandstand positions at 18,000 feet and even made a vivid photographic record of the conflict.

The Melbourne radio, quoting Norman Stockton, a war correspondent who had seen the pictures, said the action took place 150 miles from the north Queensland coast.

"At least 500 planes took part," said the broadcast, heard here by CBS. "Both sides, used torpedo carriers and dive bombers."

The sky was cloudless and the photographs captured the engagement in startling detail.

"One astounding photograph showed six Japanese warships, including the two doomed aircraft carriers, weaving a pattern of white circles against the background of deep blue sea, each Japanese ship dodging American bombs in different directions, each frantically attempting to escape destruction," Stockton was quoted.

"Another shows the aircraft carrier a few minutes before she was struck. The bombs are plainly etched against the background of blue and maneuvering white vessels."

"In another picture, the doomed aircraft carrier is seen making a complete circle in an effort to avoid the bombs. The speed at which the Japanese ships were traveling in their effort to avoid the allied planes is shown by the huge white wakes of foam, almost as large as the ships themselves."

Stockton described the pictures of the battle as "probably the most astounding photographic scoop on record."

War Fraud Charges Filed Against Three
By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, May 11—Three officials at Lakewood war plant were arraigned today on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government by placing "O. K." on engine parts rejected by navy inspectors.

The three, who pleaded innocent before Federal Judge Emory H. Ford, are: Harry J. Harsch, 45, of Rocky River, vice president-superintendent of the John Harsch Bronze & Foundry Co.; Alfred H. Huck, 28, production manager; and Walter E. Cowie, 27, assistant production manager.

The trio is accused of conspiring to defraud the government by replacing navy inspectors' rejected symbols on bronze rings and castings for navy engines with "approved" symbols.

U. S. Planes Get Graphic Pictures of Conflict.

By The Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO, May 11—American bombers returning to their Australian base from an independent mission watched the gigantic battle of the Coral sea from grandstand positions at 18,000 feet and even made a vivid photographic record of the conflict.

The Melbourne radio, quoting Norman Stockton, a war correspondent who had seen the pictures, said the action took place 150 miles from the north Queensland coast.

"At least 500 planes took part," said the broadcast, heard here by CBS. "Both sides, used torpedo carriers and dive bombers."

The sky was cloudless and the photographs captured the engagement in startling detail.

"One astounding photograph showed six Japanese warships, including the two doomed aircraft carriers, weaving a pattern of white circles against the background of deep blue sea, each Japanese ship dodging American bombs in different directions, each frantically attempting to escape destruction," Stockton was quoted.

"Another shows the aircraft carrier a few minutes before she was struck. The bombs are plainly etched against the background of blue and maneuvering white vessels."

"In another picture, the doomed aircraft carrier is seen making a complete circle in an effort to avoid the bombs. The speed at which the Japanese ships were traveling in their effort to avoid the allied planes is shown by the huge white wakes of foam, almost as large as the ships themselves."

Stockton described the pictures of the battle as "probably the most astounding photographic scoop on record."

First Sinkings Reported from Gulf of Mexico

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, May 11—A new area—the Gulf of Mexico—was added last week to the four sectors of Atlantic waters where Axis submarines and Pearl Harbor have sunk, an officially announced total of 175 United Nations vessels.

In reporting 18 new sinkings during the week of May 4-10, the navy said seven of these occurred off the U. S. east coast, bringing the war total for that region to 92.

In the Gulf of Mexico two ships fell prey to enemy submarines, penetrating that body of water for the first time.

HITS FATHER-IN-LAW, CONN BREAKS HAND

By The Associated Press
PITTSBURGH, May 11—The Sun-Telegraph says Billy Conn, former lightweight champion, broke his left hand last night in a fight with his father-in-law, Jimmy Smith, at Smith's home.

Conn, now a private in the army, was slated to meet lightweight champion Joe Louis for the title next month.

Conn and Smith, a former major league ball player, had been at odds since Conn last summer married Smith's daughter, Mary Louise, despite Smith's objections.

The Sun-Telegraph quoted Conn as saying that Smith through a friend, invited him to the Smith home last night following a christening ceremony for Conn's baby. Conn said the friend explained Smith "wanted to buy the hatchet."

"Maybe he did want to buy the hatchet before I got there but not after."

Conn said friends and relatives intervened for both Conn and Smith had been pummeled and bruised.

U. S. Planes Rushed To Defense of India

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 11—A British government official said today America and British planes were moving in large numbers into India and that a defense force of more than a million men would be "on the job" in the event of a Japanese attack.

Graham Spry, personal assistant to Sir Stafford Cripps in the recent vain negotiations for a non-aligned resistance promised by the All-India congress also would impede the invaders.

The British army in India, Spry said, is increasing at the rate of 50,000 a month, out of which 10,000 are British, and the remainder are Indian.

Axis Radio Reports Jap Volcano in Eruption
LONDON, May 11—Asama Yama, the largest volcano in Japan, about 199 miles northwest of Tokyo, erupted with great violence Saturday night, doing unestimated damage, according to the Berlin radio.

The broadcast, quoting dispatches from Tokyo, said the eruption was the worst in many years and the German-controlled Brussels radio characterized it as "a catastrophe. A thick rain of ashes blanketed the countryside for miles around, the Brussels version added."

Asama Yama, regarded as the most treacherous volcano in Japan, has a long history of eruptions, the worst of which occurred in 1783, lasting 53 days and killing thousands.

FRENCH AMBASSADOR CAUTIONS OF MOVES

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 11—Governor of the French embassy in Washington, called at the State Department today to present the Vichy government's views on United States proposals to safeguard French Caribbean possessions and commented "this is no time to pour oil on the fire."

The less I say today the better, he told newsmen before meeting Secretary of State Hull. Patrice is called for at the moment. I am trying to avoid complications by refraining from commentaries which might interfere with the adjustment of a delicate problem.

The ambassador indicated that he had come to discuss, rather than to protest, the American proposals, which were opened directly with Admiral Georges Robe, French high commissioner at Martinique last Saturday.

He declined to discuss the nature of the American proposals or to disclose the attitude of the Vichy government. State department officials likewise have declined to discuss details of the negotiations.

There was no definite word from Martinique as to whether Robert Patrice, French high commissioner at Martinique, was to return to France in connection with United States defense measures in that area.

Tokyo Bombing Took Japs By Complete Surprise

Translated English Language Broadcast on Beauty of Life in Japan.

The Associated Press
May 11—One of the most surprising and complete surprises in the history of the world was the attack on Tokyo by the Japanese planes flying at low altitudes—so low that it was necessary to avoid barrage balloons. The selected targets were unmistakable and were accurately attacked with demolition and incendiary bombs.

"Military, naval and industrial plants were the objectives in the vicinity of Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, and other localities. Large fires were started which continued to burn in some instances for at least two days.

"An interesting sidelight on the raid was the fact that as the planes approached Japan a propaganda broadcast in English was being transmitted by a Tokyo radio station. The announcer was detailing the pleasures of life in Japan and the freedom from fear of bombing.

Program Cut Off
The broadcast was cut off, and a warning was broadcast in Japanese to the extent that Tokyo was then being bombed by a great number of low-flying airplanes which were traveling at terrific speed.

"The Japanese announcer stated that these planes were moving too fast to be overtaken. He later reported that three Japanese intercepter planes had been lost.

"Later in the afternoon a further broadcast announced that there were between three and four thousand casualties. The Japanese people were asked to pray for rain to extinguish the fires and to decrease the chance for further air raids.

"Subsequently, the tone of the broadcast became less feverish and it was announced that only hospitals, schools, and other points of no possible military value had been bombed and that even then the damage had been slight.

"Forty eight hours later the Tokyo broadcaster reported that the fires started during the raid were then under control.

"There was no confirmation of Japanese reports at the time that nine planes had been shot down.

maintaining a reserve to meet demands of coming months should the 1942 crop prove to be a disappointment. This was the first time since the 1933-34 season that the surplus of corn has been so low.

Stocks On April 1

Ever-normal granary stocks on April 1 totaled 322,000,000 bushels, of which 262,000,000 represented corn from the 1933-34 season. This was the first time since the 1933-34 season that the surplus of corn has been so low.

The amount of corn under seal now is believed to have been reduced further during April as a result of the offer terminating redemption of 130,000,000 bushels of 1936-37 corn at 61 cents. The offer expired April 30 and had been in force since February.

Substitution

The extent of wheat substitution for corn and other feeds was shown by the figures, indicating that since Jan. 19 about 22,000,000 bushels have been sold for feed. The government has hoped

An unidentified car was involved in a mishap with a bicycle owned by Billy Williams of 242 Olney avenue.

A sedan driven by Rush M. Johnson of 267 Senate street and a coach operated by Martin L. Buckley of 454 Bellefontaine avenue collided in the 200 block on North Main street Saturday morning.

Cars driven by Donald Conroy of 202 Tully street and Marguerite Stewart of 363 Hane avenue figured in a mishap Saturday afternoon at Mt. Vernon and Hane avenue.

A sedan which police had not fully identified was involved in a collision with another sedan operated by William Starnes of near Marion. The Starnes auto was picking when it collided with the other car, which was parked on State street, south of Centel Sunday morning.

Bond Sale Campaign Success in Morrow Co.

MT. GILEAD, May 11.—Early reports of Morrow county war bond sales indicate that the drive last week was successful and that a majority of families are now pledged to buy bonds regularly for the duration of the war, Dr. G. B. Robinson, county bond committee chairman, said today.

Volunteers in the towns of the county were able to complete their campaign earlier than those in the rural districts because the press of spring farm work has held the drive in the rural areas.

FORMER MARIONITE NEW NAVY ENSIGN

Wm. Thompson Commissioned in Naval Reserves.

Thompson of Chestnut street, has been assistant manager of the City Loan Co. office in Port Clinton for the last two and a half years and prior to that time was in the company's office in Lancaster for two and a half years.

A graduate of Harding High school, he entered Ohio university at Athens and was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in 1917. He resided in finance. His wife, a Port Clinton girl, accompanied him to the west coast.

STEEL MAKERS FORESEE TROUBLE NEXT WINTER

CLEVELAND, May 11.—Most steel makers have sufficient supplies of scrap metal to operate near capacity, but they are unable to build reserves for next winter and are concerned over prospects.

"Collections from domestic sources are returning good results but when these are exhausted the tonnage will fall back to production from current fabrication, thus cutting down the flow materials," the magazine Steel said today in its weekly review.

"One effect from automobile wrecking is an increase in cast grades, which has relieved the tight situation of foundries to some degree."

"Licensing of scrap material dealers, ordered last week by OPA, will afford closer control of the industry as violations of ceiling regulations can be dealt with by revocation of license, barring the offender from further trading."

Diets for Old People

SOME PHILOSOPHER has said that man should go out of life dietetically as he came into it—in milk. This seems to be fundamentally at least in conformity with modern scientific nutritional advice.

We are paying more and more attention to the diseases of old people, which is quite natural considering the increase in our aged population. A number of scientific treatises have appeared of late in the field of geriatrics, which is the specialty of the treatment of the elderly, and among these studies have been scientific investigations of the dietetic adjustments which must be made for the aged.

In the first place the total amount of food required is reduced rapidly after the age of 60. From 60 to 75 years the total caloric requirement is estimated as 10 per cent less than in youth and middle age. For those over 75 it would be 20 per cent less.

There are certain elements in food which old people probably need more of than would be indicated by their weight and by the total food intake. Protein, that is to say meat, eggs and milk, should be kept at least as high as that of a young person.

The digestion of elderly people is poor and their absorption of minerals and vitamins is often not as good as normal. They are inclined to show deficiencies of calcium, phosphorus, iron and iodine. Calcium can be found in milk, which brings us back to our original statement that the diet of old age should be the diet of infancy. Cheese is also a good food for elderly people because it is easy to digest and rich in calcium.

Milk is a poor source of iron, and in the aged, iron should be furnished and, in fact, pushed in the form of green vegetables and fruit. Sea foods contain iodine. The diet may contain plenty of vitamins, but it is notorious that vitamin deficiencies can come from lack of absorption and in the diet of the aged there should be special care on the part of the dietitian to see that the vitamin content is high.

It is well to space the meals of those over 60 with at least four and one-half hours between meals and three meals a day. The meals should be approximately equal in calories without any one large meal that would overtax the digestive system.

The following menu is suggested for a sedentary patient 75 years old:

Breakfast: Orange juice, 1/2 cup; rolled oats, cooked, 1/2 cup; whole milk, 1 cup; egg, 1 medium-sized; bacon, crisp, 2 1/2 slices; toast, 1 slice; butter, square; marmalade, 2 tablespoons; cream, 1 tablespoon; sugar, 2 teaspoons; coffee, 1 cup.

Lunch: Bread, 1 slice; butter, 1 square; tomato, 1/2 cup; peas, young, canned, 1/2 cup; potato, size of 2 eggs; meat, medium fat, 1 slice; baked apple, 1 small; cream, 4 tablespoons; sugar, 2 teaspoons; coffee or tea, 1 cup.

Dinner: Bread, 1 slice; butter, 1 square; string beans, 1/2 cup;

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

During Return Trip to New York Madge Makes 'Charles' Admit He Is Really Jack Bickett.

I WAS malicious enough to feel unadulterated glee when "Charles," the supposed servant of Professor Diswell but who, I knew now, was Jack Bickett my long lost cousin, started violently as I addressed him as "Shawn Rue."

He pulled himself together in an instant, and presented an apparently unperturbed countenance to my steady gaze. But old Professor Diswell was not so poised. Before Jack could speak he had gasped out "Why do you call him that? Have you found out—"

"She's probably been looking up telephone records," Jack said smoothly. "And discovered that when I telephoned you a month ago, I gave you the name which Jack Bickett said would make you certain that I came from him. But just what did you mean by addressing me in that fashion, Mrs. Graham, I believe the name is?"

Irritated Her As a Child

He was so smoothly insolent that I would have dearly liked to box his ears, as I used to do young in our childish quarrels. He had possessed that smoothly silken insolence to perfection even then.

And I never had forgotten that early tone, and in our later association I had heard him use it with telling effect upon people, who, in his opinion, needed to be "squashed," a word frequently upon his lips.

It was patent that he did not wish me to recognize him, and was making a desperate effort to forestall such a recognition. But I was perverse enough to thwart that effort, and I saved my conscience by telling myself that no matter how strong his motive for wishing to remain incognito, I had a stronger one for defeating it.

Marion's rescue was paramount to everything else, and I knew that my father would consider my discovery as of the greatest importance, and would expect me to bring Jack to him as soon as I should reach the city.

I shot a swift glance over my shoulder. Joe and Gus were in the front seat absorbed in some low-voiced colloquy of their own, although Joe's eyes were fixed on the road unrolling before the armored car.

"Yes, the name is Graham," I said, "as you know very well; as well, indeed, as I know that you are my cousin Jack Bickett."

medium-sized; cream, 1 tablespoonful; meat, medium fat, 1 slice; milk, 5/8 cup; sugar, 1 scant teaspoonful; chocolate cornstarch pudding.

He jerked his head around and shot a disturbed glance at the two men in front, then turned his non-committal face to mine again. "They cannot possibly hear you," I murmured, "but if you carry on this foolish denial of your identity any longer, I shall shout your name so loudly that they cannot avoid hearing it. You can't 'squash' me, Jack Bickett, and don't you think you can. You used to try it when we were children, but you never succeeded."

Admits He Is Jack

He stared at me for a long second through his dark glasses, evidently measuring my determination.

"And you can't stare me down either," I snapped a bit pettishly, but careful to keep my voice to a murmur. You never could, and you never will."

Suddenly a slow, sardonic grin touched the corners of his mouth. "You're an unholly blackmailer, but you win. And now that you know, what are you going to do about it?"

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, May 12

A DEFINITE promise is found in this day's astral configurations for the inception, development and fruitful culmination of projects and ventures of large scope and significance. This may be in collaboration with important bodies and through means of well-organized strategies and techniques. It is a time for pushing to high goals and with confidence and assurance of help from the most influential sources. Cultivate these with diplomacy and tact in spite of small setbacks or peculiar annoyances. In private affairs be discreet.

Those whose birthday it is may have the assurance of a successful attainment of their high ambitions, with the hearty support of those in power and public standing, with all manner of major corporations and fraternal or political groups ready to assist in well-laid plans and clever strategies. There may be trivial anxieties or surprising twists to these, but use finesse in approaching influential personages. Also be circumspect in personal relations and conduct.

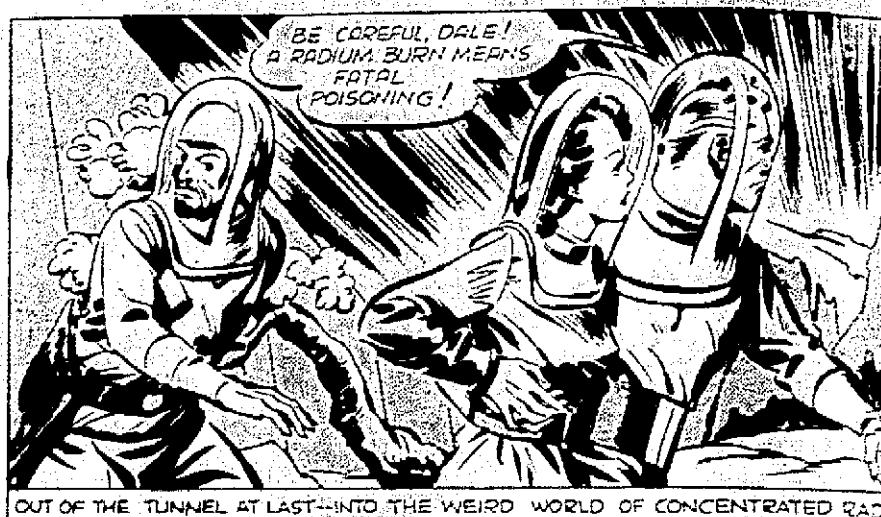

A child born on this day should have high ambitions with much ability and personal strategy and tact for attaining outstanding success and prestige. Its splendid traits may gain public acclaim.

The word Alaska is believed to be a corruption of a native term, Al-ay-ek-sa, meaning "The Great Land."
